

Selection Criteria - SIPE25

SIPE25 is not just an event, it's an opportunity to grow, connect, and share ideas between physics students and young researchers from Italy and Spain.

That's why we want to build a diverse and motivated group of participants: people who will bring value to the event and take something meaningful back with them.

Each application will be carefully evaluated using a scoring system, but also with an eye on the overall profile and team composition. Below are the selection criteria that the SIPE25 Organizing Committee will adopt in the event that the number of applications for the conference participation exceeds the available spots, namely 60 participants requiring accommodation and 20 participants without accommodation.

What we'll look at

When we read your application and motivation letter, we'll ask ourselves:

- Who are you? What truly excites you?
- Why do you want to join SIPE25?
- What would you bring to the event and take from it?

We'll consider the following areas:

- 1. Your involvement in AISEF, RSEF, or IAPS
- 2. Your interest in SIPE25
- 3. Your passion for physics (and beyond)
- 4. Your interest in the professional world
- 5. Your background and perspective

A balanced group

Alongside motivation and merit, we'll aim to build a well-balanced group in terms of:

- geographic origin (ideally at least one participant per local committee, where possible);
- gender (aiming for a 50/50 distribution);
- level of study;
- theoretical vs. experimental interests;

-national representation.

Allocation of Spots and Replacements

Should any selected participant decline their participation, new candidates will be identified following the selection criteria described above.

Please note that the Executive Committee will ensure the integrity of the entire selection process by overseeing each phase. All the criteria and decisions outlined in this document have been unanimously approved by the SIPE25 Organizing Committee and the AISF Executive Committee.

Questions or concerns? Don't hesitate to contact us at sipe25@ai-sf.it or on our IG profile @sipe.25, we'll be happy to help!

And if you're not selected, don't worry: this is just one of many opportunities to get involved in our community.
